Chapter 1. Unit Test: msgset.001.xml

XML document structures must start and end within the same entity.

In XML, the end tag for an element must occur in the same entity as the start tag. You cannot include an external parsed entity that contains unbalanced tags, even if the result, after the content is included would be balanced.

XML document structures must start and end within the same entity.

In XML, the end tag for an element must occur in the same entity as the start tag. You cannot include an external parsed entity that contains unbalanced tags, even if the result, after the content is included would be balanced.

Title of msgset

XML document structures must start and end within the same entity.

Document is not well-formed.

Subordinate message.

Audience: audience

Level: user

Origin: parser

In XML, the end tag for an element must occur in the same entity as the start tag. You cannot include an external parsed entity that contains unbalanced tags, even if the result, after the content is included would be balanced.

Title of msgset with msgentry